Q1. Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions given below:-

Drivers of vehicles should never fail to give the right signals; otherwise there is great danger of accidents happening. There are signals for turning right or left, for slowing down and for stopping, and for letting one vehicle overtake another. Cyclists are often careless about giving signals, thinking that these are important only for motorists. But all roads users, cyclists as well as motorists, ought to give the right signals so that others on the road may be warned. Pedestrians, too, should have knowledge of these signals so that they may be able to tell which way the vehicles on the road are going to pass.

Questions:
